TED EARLEY

She seems like she can take care of herself, Charlie.

CREWS

Yeah... she does.

(re: Ricky Bodner photo)

Ricky Bodner... went to the academy with Jack Reese, left the force two months after the Bank Of Los Angeles shoot-out.

TED EARLEY

Do I want to know what he does now?

CREWS

Fighting. Now he does fighting.

TED EARLEY

Fighting?

CREWS

Ricky Bodner is the majority shareholder of Arena Fighting.

TED EARLEY

What's that?

CREWS

Well, Ted, it's the fastest growing sport in Los Angeles. It's money, sex, blood and power.

They look at the photo of Ricky Bodner.

TED EARLEY

And he owns it.

CREWS

He owns it.

Now we hear... the roar of a crowd and the unmistakable sound of TWO MEN KICKING THE SHIT OUT OF EACH OTHER.

WE GO FROM THE PHOTO OF RICKY BODNER TO...

INT. ARENA BOXING MATCH - NIGHT

RICKY BODNER himself moving down the aisle of the Arena Boxing match. The place is packed, the crowd roars.

Beautiful women pass him by and smile. Men in expensive suits slap him on the back.

Ricky moves closer to the ring. TWO MEN in there engaged in full contact boxing. Brutal, primal fighting.

Ricky is at ringside... he takes an empty seat next to a WELL DRESSED OLDER MAN. The crowd roars as one of the men in the ring is taken to the floor by the other man.

Ricky settles next to the well dressed older man and says...

RICKY
Having a good time?

WELL DRESSED OLDER MAN
Nothing like a good fight, Ricky.

RICKY
No, Mr. Mayor, there's nothing like a good fight.
